

The Bottom Line

The Bottom Line, our free e-mail newsletter, will help corporate energy managers and other business leaders in energy management and procurement reduce their energy costs and environmental impact by offering insights, observations, and information about energy efficiency, energy procurement, and carbon management. Through The Bottom Line, we hope you'll discover new ideas, food for thought, or something that helps you do your job better. This newsletter, which debuted in December 2010, is sent every other month.
