E Source is pleased to announce the results of the E Source 2021 Business Customer Satisfaction Study. The company surveyed large business customers to discover the utility attributes they value most as well as where their utility ranks on those attributes. The survey uses a 10-point scale, where 1 is the lowest score and 10 is the highest. Among seven attributes, large business customers selected four as most important for a utility to possess:

- Energy reliability
- Effective emergency communications
- Trustworthiness
- Keeping energy prices down

E Source Market Research conducts the annual Business Customer Satisfaction Study to provide utilities and account representatives with direct feedback from large business customers. The survey produces an understanding of the overall satisfaction levels and identifies where improvement is essential. Over 800 large business customers participated in the 13th edition of the study, which revealed the top-ranked utilities in 2021.

Of the participating utilities, WEC Energy Group earned the top spot, receiving a score of 9.35 out of 10 for overall customer satisfaction and perceived value.

Of the participating utilities, WEC Energy Group earned the top spot, receiving a score of 9.35 out of 10 for overall customer satisfaction and perceived value. WEC Energy Group also scored high in being trustworthy, being easy to do business with, and offering reliable energy. In addition, the utility's account reps earned the highest scores for all attributes in the study.

"In a year of extraordinary challenges, our focus on providing reliable, world-class service never wavered," says Tom Metcalfe, president of We Energies. "We are grateful to serve our customers every day."

FPL earned second place in the large business study. The utility scored high for effective communications during energy emergencies and trustworthiness. FPL earned an average score of 9.03 out of 10 for overall satisfaction and perceived value.

In third place, Huntsville Utilities scored high in trustworthiness and providing reliable energy. Large business customers gave the utility an overall satisfaction and perceived value score of 8.92 out of 10.

"We'd like to congratulate the top utilities in the large business study for being customer focused and implementing best practices to better serve these businesses." —Daniel Doutre, senior analyst, E Source Market Research

"With the growth Madison County, Alabama, has seen over the last year, we are delighted to know our core principle of customer service satisfaction has not wavered according to our customers," says Chris Key, key account supervisor at Huntsville Utilities. "We look forward to seeing our customers excel in the coming years and are proud to provide the foundational, essential services necessary to achieve their goals."

"We'd like to congratulate the top utilities in the large business study for being customer focused and implementing best practices to better serve these businesses," says Daniel Doutre, senior analyst, E Source Market Research. "Customers are noticing their outstanding efforts, and so are we."
